OU--NU Merger Bill Survives

The OU-NU merger bill barely survived a kill motion yesterday. The 24-24 vote was one short of the 25 needed.

In a parsing lot interview yesterday, Dr. Kirk Naylor told The Gateway, "I am still cautiously optimistic as ever about the merger bill. The tie vote is no indication of the final vote."

During the half-hour debate, Introducer Terry Carpenter urged the outstate senators not to retaliate because most of the Omaha delegation didn't support the income-sales tax, which passed Wednesday.

In other Legislature action: The junior college aid bill,

LB-490, received 37-10 approval on its final reading yesterday.

Under the terms of this bill OU will get $608,611 if enrollment remains the same.

LB 490 provides aid to junior colleges and to OU for freshman and sophomore enrollment at the rate of $7.50 per credit hour per student.

Lexington Senator Albert Kjar attempted to delay the vote pending the arrival of an attorney general's opinion on the relationship between LB 490's aid to OU and the pending LB 736 which would make OU part of the University of Nebraska.

Backers of LB 490 told Kjar that there is no conflict. If and when the OU-NU merger is passed, OU as a municipal university would go out of existence and would not be subject to the junior college aid.

Omaha Senators Bloom, Danner, Klaver, Mahoney, Moulton, Moylan, Pedersen, Reynolds,

Dr. Naylor also said yesterday that the Administration has already started on the budget. He added that the junior college bill was the only thing holding it up. "The budget will be prepared by the end of May."

Skarda and Syas, and Bellevue Senator Payne voted for the bill.

Omaha Senators Batchelder and Proud voted against.

Honors Convocation At 10:30 Wed.

All OU honor students and scholarships will be recognized at next Wednesday's Honors Convocation.

The 10:30 convocation, co-sponsored by Phi Kappa Phi and Dean Donald Pflasterer, will be held in the Ad Building Auditorium. All classes will be dismissed for this period.

PKP, the only national scholastic honorary on campus, will recognize its 19 initiates who will be inducted into OU's chapter May 18.

The honor society will also present three books to the Eppley Library.

Guest speaker will be Dr. William H. Maehl, a distinguished historian, from Nebraska Wesleyan. Dr. Maehl will comment on "Russia's Odyssey Back to Europe."

The recent tradition of having no academic procession for students and faculty will be continued. Special invitations have been sent to the honor students and scholarship holders.

A student earns the honor student distinction by achieving a 3.5 grade average for at least one semester.

Benet Play On The Way

The University Theatre will present Steven Vincent Benet's play, "John Brown's Body," on April 21, 22 and 23 in the Administration Auditorium.

Some of the characters are actual people from the pages of history, others are purely fictional.

A combination of poetry and music, the lines are partly sung and partly spoken by the cast. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday night and 8 p.m. on Sunday. Tickets are $1.50 and may be reserved by calling 553-4700, Ext. 335, April 17-21.

Students are admitted free and may reserve tickets at the box office from 9-2:30, April 17-21 with their activity card.

Coed of the Week

A Flower In The Rain

Waiting for April showers to bring May flowers is Joan Adams. In the meantime, the 21-year-old junior has much to keep her busy such as a double major in sociology and psychology. She is also active in the Young Republicans as vice-president, the Concerts and Lectures Committee and as Delta Sigma Theta pledge.

Independents To Try Coup?

By Lothar A. Luken

In China it is the Year of the Ram, while on the OU campus, this may be the year of the independent push.

Pushing to gain more representation on the Student Council, several independents have banded together to co-ordinate this push in time for the May 10 elections.

For Better Government

These students hope to unite independents on campus by seeking the support of the various non-Greek organizations and by formulating a "platform" statement calling for a more representative and effective student government.

This group of independents owes its existence to the coffee-stained tables of the OUampi Room, over which discussions have lately centered about the topic of Greeks versus independents.

It is an amorphous body whose size seems dependent upon the number of independents seated around a OUampi Room table at any one particular time.

Their only common interest seems to be the promotion of independent candidates, since they feel the time has come for students to have a larger choice than the usual all-Greek ballots of previous elections.

30 Lay Plans

At a Monday noon meeting, the movement gained momentum when nearly 30 independent students representing various non-Greek organizations on campus laid plans for an initial course of action.

Included in this course of action are plans for the formulation of the "platform" statement, and efforts to channel non-Greek organizational and non-affiliated independent support to independent candidates.

The platform, to be made public shortly, will call for such items as faculty advisory seating on the Council, along with the present administrative seating.

One of the best love stories ever filmed will be shown in the OUampi Room next Monday.

"Sundays and Cybele" is the classic tale of two lovers whom society rejects. Hardy Kruger stars in this award-winning French film.

Waakiya Applications

Any woman, who is now or will be a senior and has a 3.0 or above grade average, can apply for membership in Waakiya.

Applications for the women's leadership honorary may be obtained in Rm. 250 Student Center next Monday through Friday.

Faculty Drafts Provisions

Several weeks ago, OU faculty members appointed a committee of their numbers to draft a constitution for use by the proposed faculty senate.

Dr. John Blackwell, art department head and chairman of the Senate Study Committee, reported this week that the committee has completed work on the constitution and will submit it to the Administration for approval today.

If the Administration gives its approval to the constitution, OU faculty members will have a chance to vote on the provisions next Monday and Tuesday.

After the constitution has been sanctioned by both the Administration and the faculty, President Naylor will present it to the Board of Regents for final approval.

After all parties concerned have agreed on the basic provisions, there will be an election of Senate members sometime in May.

OU art instructor Thomas Majeski told The Gateway that he has taken an interest in the proposed Senate. He is presently trying to stir up enthusiasm for the project among the younger members of the faculty.

For a closer look at the constitution see page 3.

"The 'Old Guard' of a university are always the ones that are most interested in organizations of this kind, primarily because they feel they have the most to gain," said Majeski.

Noel Weimer, Sandy Friedman and Brenda . . . one will be OU's ambassador to Greece.

One Of Three Will Spend Summer As Ambassador

A two-month experience in another culture awaits one of the three OU students pictured above. In the very near future, one will be chosen OU's ambassador to Greece.

The ambassador will travel and learn this summer under the Experiment in International Living program. The Greek ambassador will be the fifth OU student in the program to spend a summer in a foreign land.

Last year's ambassador to Israel, Doug Slaughter, told The Gateway some of what is in store for this year's representative.

First, there is an intensive two-week acquaintance period before arriving in Greece. The training time begins at Putney, Vt. and ends on an ocean liner cruising eastward across the Atlantic and Mediterranean waters.

The ambassador's stay in Greece will be split into two parts. The first will be a month-long home stay with a real Greek family.

The remaining four weeks will be devoted to touring the country to gain an overview of Greek life—both past and present.

What do prospective ambassadors Noel Weimer, Brenda Williams and Sandy Friedman think about the possible experience?

Noel, an English major, thinks the name "Experiment in International Living" should be changed. "You are really learning about different people," she said.

Noel was a finalist last year. All three students are now juniors.

Brenda, a math major, views the experiment as being "completely different from being a tourist. By living with people you can understand them and their culture better."

Sandy, with a double major in general science and economics, hopes to gain an experience "I wouldn't have gotten otherwise."

Bill Kill Nil

The OU-NU merger bill must have the proverbial nine lives of a cat. The proposal has so far survived a kill attempt and some delay tactics, as well.

Last Monday, a Henry Pederson motion to hold the bill on select file passed. Another Omaha Senator, George Syas, termed Pedersen's proposal a "delaying tactic."

A Tuesday motion by Waverly Senator Jerome Warner successfully "unbracketed" the move. However Pedersen's delaying tactic was at least partially successful.

The bill drafter said he couldn't process the merger proposal in time for a final vote yesterday. The bill was to have been voted upon at the same time as the junior college measure.

The junior college bill passed yesterday. Meanwhile the OU-NU merger bill languishes in the legislative hopper.

Yesterday's unsuccessful kill attempt may have resulted from the lack of Omaha support given the income-sales tax bill. Only three of the 12-member delegation voted favorably Wednesday.

The Gateway agrees with Scottsbluff Senator Terry Carpenter that the outstate legislators shouldn't retaliate against the merger bill.

Omaha University shouldn't be treated like a political pawn to be moved about at the discretion of the Legislature. Caution should be the watchword, though.

However so-called caution can be carried too far—the death of a proposal by inaction.

As OU Registrar Virgil Sharp says: "Now it's your move."

Letters To The Editor

Dean Utley - 'Thanks Gateway'

Dear Editor,

Just a word of appreciation for the coverage you gave "An Evening's Frost" — both the advance front page story and the excellent review by Mr. Wilson.

It was truly a great show and CCS feels privileged to have been able to bring it.

You and your predecessors have been most generous with The Gateway support — too bad we can't get like response from the three elements of the University "population."

Thanks again.

William T. Utley,
 Dean of College of Continuing Studies

Student Set For 'Image-Making'

Dear Editor,

I am heartened to see that once again officials in the Omaha University Administration are blessing the campus reputation with sound public relations.

A recent example of good sentiment was echoed in the local daily stating: "Request to Poll Faculty Raises Ire of Naylor." Chances are many that President Naylor may have offered more appropriate comment to Omaha Senator Henry Pedersen's request for a polling of faculty in regards to the worth of an OU and NU merger. Dr. Naylor's reply to the request was: "I will not, and I resent the implication." The remark looks nice in print.

Perhaps the University will again put forth a similar public relations show in gaining the respect of Omahans and Nebraskans by equaling the campaigns given for proposed mill-levy increases and the firing of former President Traywick. At least it appears as if it is on the beaten path.

In regard to merger plans and so-called financial difficulties now pending, I keep asking myself the following:

1. Exactly how much money is needed to keep the University functioning in an efficient manner?
 2. How much money is needed for growth? Poverty is a figment of the mind. Even a man who is regarded by others as wealthy may consider himself impoverished in lieu of success he is striving to achieve.

3. A lowering of tuition by means of a merger does not appear likely. The problem would only be one of compounding the misery.

4. What is wrong with the student paying his share? The cost of everything is going up, including education. The importance of education has never been doubted and enrollment records prove it. It is difficult to think of any substitute venture that would yield as many returns for the price.

5. It is foreseeable that some economic factors may hinder the student hard-pressed for green paper. What better way to get a student through college than to finance him?

A four-year loan period with low interest rates, or even high interest rates at the end of the four-year period might prove worthy of investigation. What enterprise such as a bank or credit company can deny that college-educated people are in a better position to pay-off bills and live a more prosperous life in general?

Respectfully,

Dan Novotny

Six Scholarships Up For Grabs

The Alumni Association has added a new scholarship to the five scholarships presently available.

The Stanton W. Salisbury Alumni Memorial scholarship will be awarded for the first time to an undergraduate for the 1967-68 academic year.

This will bring $150 per semester to a son or daughter of an alumnus or alumna. The applicant may be a candidate for any type of degree and should be at least a sophomore and have a grade average of at least 2.2.

The fourth annual Sallquist scholarship given by Hal T. and Freda C. Sallquist (parents of Gary Sallquist BA '60) will provide financial assistance for a promising young man or woman at OU to complete his or her education.

The scholarship provides $200 per semester for tuition and books.

The applicant must have been enrolled two full semesters prior to application, and must be paying own tuition and books. He or she must be single at the time of application and during the semester or semesters he holds the scholarship, must be active in extra-curricular activities and display leadership potential with a grade average of 2.75.

The Peter Kiewit Engineering scholarship is provided with funds contributed to the Alumni Association by Mr. Kiewit.

The scholarship awards $250 per semester to a civil or industrial engineering major who intends to obtain his bachelor's degree at OU, for use during his junior or senior year. The applicant must have an average of at least 2.5.

The Daniel E. Jenkins Memorial scholarship brings $150 per semester to a student outstanding in scholastic achievement and service to the University and the community.

The applicant must be in the upper 10 per cent of the class scholastically. The money is to be used in the senior year.

Funds collected from recent Alumni Fund Drives finance the Wilfred Payne scholarship, named in honor of the first recipient of the Alumni's Faculty Achievement Award in 1962.

This scholarship awards $159 per semester to a junior student for use in his senior year.

The recipient is to be a candidate for a BA degree with a major in one of the humanities: art, English, foreign languages, music, philosophy, religion or speech. He must have a grade average of at least 3.0.

The Alumni Association will award $100 per semester to an outstanding student in the natural or social sciences.

This, the Glenn L. Martin scholarship, goes to a sophomore or junior for use during his junior or senior year. The recipient must be a candidate for a BA degree from these departments: biology, chemistry, geography, mathematics, physics, economics, history, political science, psychology, social science or sociology. He must have an average of at least 2.5.

Applications for these scholarships are available in the Alumni Office, Student Center room 232. Applications are due Friday, April 28.

Class 'Replaces' Convocation

Why was Dr. John M. Newton's experimental psychology class held during the Easter Convocation?

The Gateway contacted Dr. Newton and was told he had encouraged his class to go to the Easter Convocation. Also he told the students they could come to his class instead of sitting in the Ouampi Room drinking coffee.

Students were not required to hand in term papers personally to the professor. Dr. Newton also explained that no formal lecture was planned for the session.

Dean Donald Pflasterer, when asked about convocations, told The Gateway that it is a University rule to dismiss all classes when a regularly scheduled convocation is held.

Dean Pflasterer added that it is not up to the individual faculty members to decide.

Apparently Dr. Newton's experimental psychology class was not an exception to this rule after all.

The Honors Convocation will be held April 19.

This column focuses attention on the problems and questions of OU students. Any problems or questions The Gateway may be able to seek solutions for can be submitted to The Gateway office, Engr 116. The Gateway reserves the right to decide which questions it will answer.

Around Campus

A Rand-om Speaker

Dr. Robert Kalaba of the Rand Corporation at Santa Monica, Calif., will be a guest of the Society for Industrial and Applied Mathematics at the University of Omaha.

Kalaba will be on campus Monday and Tuesday and will lecture on "Mathematical Biology" at 7 p.m. Monday in Rm. 101, Engg. Bldg. The lecture is open to the public.

Kalaba has published over one hundred papers concerning problems in physics, engineering and research. He is a member of the American Mathematical Society and an editor for the McGraw-Hill Book Company.

May Steele The Show

Omaha U will be the site of a Summer Economics Institute to be held June 12-30 for Nebraska teachers.

The three-week workshop will enable the teachers to continue working on economic education. It is open to all kindergarten through the twelfth grade teachers in Nebraska.

Director of the Institute is Professor Donald Connell assisted by the head of the economics department, Professor Elroy Steele. Guest speakers will be Menlo Lovenstein, specialist in economic education at the University of Ohio and Jim Reese, Chairman of Economics at the University of Oklahoma at Norman.

The Institute is presented by the Omaha Public Schools in co-operation with the Nebraska Council for Economic Education. About 40 teachers are expected to attend.

When Phi's Meet

Current members of Phi Kappa Phi, the national honorary on OU's campus, are invited to attend next Monday's meeting.

The meeting will be in the usual location—Rm. 309 Student Center at 4:30.

Business will include plans for initiation and an Honors Banquet to be held May 18, at 6 p.m.

Sky's The Limit

Professional careers are available in aeronautical charting for graduates, sponsored by the Air Force.

Interviews are scheduled Tuesday, April 18, in the Placement Office, Adm. Rm. 238.

FTeaA

Future Teachers of America from Omaha area high schools were honored at a tea Wednesday afternoon in the Student Center.

The annual meeting aims to further the students' interest in a teaching career along with acquainting them with the university.

Guest speaker, Dr. Joseph Dunn, told the students and their sponsors that people no longer have the Ichabod Crane concept of the typical teacher. Teaching, he said, is a life of service to others and for the benefit of society. The most important thing, he stressed, is that the present-day teacher be a first class, normal human being.

All Booked Up

The Gene Eppley Library will observe National Library Book Week with its annual book sale in the Library Lobby, April 17-21.

The books will be on display and students and faculty are invited to browse and make selections,

Off The aCuff

The public is invited to today's OU Press Club meeting at 12:30 in Student Center, Rm. 315.

Mark Acuff, special staff writer for the Omaha Sun Newspapers, will be the guest speaker. He will talk on student involvement in the National Student Association.

Acuff was the first president of the U.S. Student Press Association, an organization that distributes news articles to member student newspapers.

A-Tests To One's Ability

A battery of educational-vocational tests are being offered by the Counseling and Testing Center in the Adm. building, Rm. 213.

They are more comprehensive than the OU entrance tests and consist of scholastic aptitude, achievement, interest and personality tests.

These tests attempt to detect personality patterns that fit a person for a general occupation area. There is no charge for students who take the series.

Oral interviews are conducted by a counselor after the tests have been completed.

The Warriner Report

Charles K. Warriner, sociology professor at the University of Kansas, will be at OU next Tuesday and Wednesday, April 18 and 19, to speak on affairs in today's society.

Professor Warriner holds the unique title "Distinguished Visiting Scientist" of the American Sociological Association and will be at OU on a grant from this organization.

Students will be given the opportunity to hear Warriner lecture on Wednesday afternoon, April 19, at 2:30, in the Engg. building, Rm. 101.

Topics for his lectures will include, "Types of Social Bonding", "Changing Role of the Actor" and "Actions Versus Behavior".

You Can Account On Them

OU's Accounting Club goes national on May 5. On that date Beta Alpha Psi will present a charter to the OU chapter.

Beta Alpha Psi is a national professional and honorary accounting fraternity. Eligibility consists of being an accounting major with a "B" average in all accounting courses and not less than a "B-" overall average.

National president Dr. Wilton Andersen will present the charter. This ceremony will be followed by the local chapter's spring initiation.

It's Elementary...

Each elementary teacher in the Omaha area guiding an OU student teacher this semester is invited to a tea April 19 at 3:30 p.m. in the Student Center.

The tea, given in appreciation for the teachers' cooperation in working with the students, is sponsored by the Department of Elementary Education.

Guests of honor include the cooperating teachers, student teachers, elementary principals and school administrators from Omaha, District 66, Millard, Bellevue and Council Bluffs.

Following a welcome to the 225 guests from President Naylor and Dean Gorman, student teachers Priscilla French and Georgia Hunter will preside over the tea.

Ride N' Be Free

End Of Old Indian Trick

By The Potamus

"That's right, Blues, the pavement is part of riding and being free. You gotta stay off the grass."

But it was too late. My good friend couldn't hear. You see he was gone forever, turned in front of a runaway bookmobile.

And that was the end of an old Indian trick. For him, it was all over but the singing and digging.

He loved living, took in each day like it was his last. It was a good thing, not many today could live the way he did, drinking whiskey, running wild and chasing women. Sort of the old loaf-of-bread-and-jug-of-wine story, but the names have been changed.

He had quite a philosophy along with his carefree ways. "Do unto others and then split," he used to say. It didn't do a lot for making friends, but then the natives didn't call him "Bwana," for nothing.

He wasn't much, in the eyes of the common man. He moved of course, chow down, loved, hated and not least of all made out like a bandit.

Ernest T. Schellep had been his name, and as the minister spoke his last words to the now-closed eyes of my fallen friend, I began to realize just what kind of a racket he had going.

Schellep started out as dishwasher at a local beanery; saved his bucks, made the big time and went to high school on the outskirts of a teeming metropolis.

He worked hard, learned and learned more. He wasn't too bright. He, eventually, graduated with the faculty only spotting him six credits.

"Kind of nice of them," he used to say.

But that wasn't all there was to my closest friend.

He was a good man. He had a way with children, just grinned at them and there wasn't anything they wouldn't do for him. Why he even let them ride on his motorcycle, all the way to Bass Lake.

As we stood there it started to rain and as we walked away from the cemetery, lightning slashed across the sky; much the same as my fallen comrade had once done, like a burst of dirty thunder.

I can still remember him, standing next to his construction-orange 400, smiling and whispering little somethings to his sweetie and if I knew him, he wasn't keeping it clean.

That was Schellep. He always came across about being on the short side of life and wanted to lose first class.

"It's an old Indian trick," he would say.

I for one, could never figure out what he meant. Did he mean a dirty old Indian, a dirty old Indian trick, or just a tricky dirty old Indian? I'll never know I guess, he took that secret to his final reward.

My departed buddie had originally come from someplace way out west and settled down after losing his spare Easter basket in the Big Papio flood of '64. He called this his home, not much mind you, but still a home. He used to feed the pigeons down at Jefferson Park every night and sometimes make it home for breakfast.

A gentle soul, he lived simply, rode and was free, and to say the least, had a great following. Occasionally, the dog-catcher would hide his friends from him, forever.

That wasn't all to my companion. He had his own business. He called it "Nobody's Business." He kept it a secret, mailed out his merchandise in Baggies. He kept repeating: "Don't wrap it, bag it."

I had asked him, several times what he was selling. His reply, always the same: "Some kind of wonder nutrient from the dark side of the moon."

I had to take his word. I had seen it on the grocer's shelves. "Brand 'X' guaranteed to make you run fast, stop quick and jump high." The label, so highly embossed also stated: "It doesn't give you goiter."

He made a fortune, so did that old Indian he always quoted. But that is an old Indian trick.

Constitution Organizes Faculty Senate

By Clarence W. Wilson

The faculty of the University of Omaha has gone constitutional.

Terms like preamble, Senate and "ex officio" member; and ideas such as representative faculty voice and faculty responsibilities in matters relating to policy formulation, are being bantered about by members of the faculty.

Rather Wordy

The 17-page document, drawn up by a faculty committee, is rather wordy, and like most constitutions, ambiguous.

The proposed Senate will serve as the faculty's representative agency to "discharge . . . those responsibilities delegated to the faculty by the Board of Regents."

"The Senate shall consist of not fewer than twenty-one faculty members elected from the colleges of the University, in accordance with the procedures established in the By-Laws.

"Each college of the University shall be represented by one Senator for each ten full-time faculty members.

"At no time shall any college seat fewer than three elected Senators, nor shall any college seat as many as one-half the elected Senators."

Some Appointed

The constitution further provides for five voting members "appointed by the Chief Executive Officer of the University, one of whom shall be from the College of Continuing Studies and one . . . from the Graduate College."

Eligibility for Senators is also outlined. Tenure is not a requirement for service, instead a faculty member must attain professorial rank (assistant professor, associate professor, or professor.)

Three Years

"Terms of elected Senators shall be three years. No faculty member shall serve as a Senator for consecutive terms, but may be elected again following the lapse of one academic year.

"Terms of appointed Senators shall be one year, and (they) shall be eligible for reappointment without limitations regarding previous service.

"The officers of the Senate shall consist of the President of the Senate, the Vice-President of the Senate and the Secretary-Treasurer of the Senate. The Senate shall conduct its business through its committees and councils."

Two Committees

Provisions are made for two permanent committees and four permanent councils.

The Executive Committee, made up of the Vice-President and the chairmen of the four councils, is to prepare the agenda for Senate meetings, prepare and monitor the budget of the Senate, and decide questions of eligibility for service on the Senate and for the privilege of voting.

The Committee on Committees, made up of five elected members, is responsible for establishing the jurisdiction and the size of all committees responsible to the councils . . . and for nominating persons to these committees.

More Councils

The Council on Faculty Personnel and Welfare will study factors pertaining to faculty working conditions; academic privilege, responsibility, freedom and tenure; teaching loads; professional growth; sabbaticals and grievance procedures.

The Council on Academic and Curricular Affairs will study factors affecting the academic life of the University and all connected factors.

The Council on Resources and Direction will study issues connected with the future growth and development of the University.

The constitution provides for the preparation of a budget request for funds necessary to accomplish the activities of the Senate.

The budget requests are to be transmitted to the chief executive officer of the University.

Review Power

Provision for faculty review of Senate action is also included in the document.

Thirty-three and one-third per cent of the members of the faculty may petition the Senate to call a meeting for the purpose of reviewing any action.

Faculty Approves NAIA Meet

By Jaey Sedlacek

Omaha University moved a step closer to hosting the NAIA National Wrestling Meet yesterday afternoon.

The faculty-athletic committee approved unanimously a motion by Gene Newport that OU host the national meet.

The committee's recommendation now goes to President Kirk Naylor for final approval.

Naylor may refer the motion back to the committee for further study since the problem of parking was brought up by baseball coach Virgil Yelkin.

Wrestling coach Don Benning told the committee it would cost the university about $3,000 to host the meet.

Chairman of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce Sports

Committee, Charles Mancuso, told the committee members the Chamber would help promote the meet.

He said, "If OU did the meet right, the NAIA would never move it away." He estimated that the university could make near $10,000 from the venture.

Sources of revenue for the contest comes from gate receipts, entry fees and program advertising.

Benning explained that the expenses of the March meet in Lock Haven, Pennsylvania were $3,000. He also said the school grossed $7,500 from the contest.

The wrestling coach reported the biggest expense of the Lock Haven meet was the cost of officials nearly $1,100.

Officiating would not be as big an expense at OU, Benning continued, because of the crop of high school coaches and officials in the greater Omaha area.

The big problem next to parking would be the locker room facilities. It would not involve any expense, just inconvenience for the wrestler.

Another possible conflict would be if the basketball team was in an elimination tournament and needed the court for practice or even games.

If OU does not accept the March, 1969 meet, Superior St., Wisconsin is the first alternate.

On another faculty-athletic committee matter, it was reported that OU will join the new Rocky Mountain Conference along with Ft. Hayes, Emporia St. and Pittsburg.

This is the entire CIC conference except for Washburn that has decided not to join.

Coach Yelkin explained the new conference was a necessity to upgrade the CIC conference since competition among the five schools is lacking.

At Ring Side

with

John Whisman

Head Coach Virgil Yelkin still proclaims that his infield corps needs work. Truer words were never spoken. The Indians have committed a ghastly 22 errors in eight games.

Third base has been the most troublesome spot to date.

Half of the total errors committed have come at the hot spot corner.

Ron Bernth has been recruited from the outfield corp to try and plug the leak at the position. Bernth has had some previous experience at the position so the defense may tighten up with the veteran at the sack.

To go along with his nifty glove handling, Bernth has proven an asset on offense. He leads the club in stolen bases with four while batting an even .200.

Part of the infield problem might be the practice field. According to Yelkin the new field at Aksarben isn't working out as well as expected. "The field is so soft that the conditions aren't adequate," commented Yelkin.

ERA Is Impressive

The pitching staff has its bright spots, but there is the dark cold side of the mound also. Jack Holder, has been pitching from the bright side while Erv Rehder must feel the cold winds when he hurls.

Holder has increased his unbeaten string to nine with three wins to date in this years campaign. Holder's 0.64 earned run average leads the hurlers.

The combined E R A of the OU staff is a very impressive 0.94.

Lenz, Myers Hit Same

From the plate the Indians are stroking a quite respectable .255, but Yelkin feels that they should be hitting better. Since the competition is getting tougher the hitters will have to hit the ball well to have any hopes of winning.

Veteran shortstop Harold Lenz leads the club in total bases with 18, in accumulating a .346 average. Lenz, the number three batter in the line-up has been a clutch hitter while at the plate.

Bill Myers hitting clean-up for the Indians has swatted for a .346 average the same as Lenz. Last year these same two players led the squad in hitting. This year they again lead the club, but with much higher averages.

Athletes Jump Into Spring

As the warm temperatures signal the birth of another Spring, a young man's fancies turn toward the spirit of romance and short hem-lines.

These signs of Spring, however, offer secondary stimuli to athletes at the University of Omaha as they prepare for Spring sports.

The physical education classes have also gone outside and freshman student John Lovstad was pictured by Gateway photographer Phil Johnson jumping into the spirit of Spring.

Tri-Meet At Crete

The University of Omaha track squad left this morning for a triangular meet with Doane College and Nebraska Wesleyan at Crete, Nebraska.

Tuesday they will return home to entertain Morningside College in a dual meet at 3:30 p.m.

Track coach Lloyd Cardwell hopes to have the services of Don Glasgow, Bob Smalley, and Larry Weller available for the dual with Morningside.

"Injuries also have kept us short in the field events and the load on Paul Gubi and weight man Jim Scott," said Cardwell.

At the Kearney Invitionals Saturday the team, "Did as well as we expected", said Cardwell.

OU placed third in the distance medley, two-miles, and three-mile relays while Bruce Jennings won fourth place honors in the pole vault with 13'0 effort.

Spring Gridders In "Good Shape"

By Dan Parker

With only two practice sessions under their belt, Coach Al Caniglia's spring gridders are doing as well as can be expected.

Missing two practice sessions due to rainy weather, Coach Caniglia is happy mainly because of the attitude of the candidates. "The kids are working harder than ever before. Enjoying very little success last season, the team lost confidence in themselves, but this year, the veterans are not only pushing themselves but the guy next to them," he said.

Sled work for leg development, has been the predominant exercise so far in spring drills. Agility and quickness drills have been applied for the development of coordination, control, and movement of the line-men.

Omaha will practice from 4:30-5:30, Monday through Friday from April 10 to May 12, with possible scrimmages on Tuesday, Wednesday or Fridays. The spring game is set for OU stadium at 1:00 on May 6th.

Outstanding line candidates are led by three year center letterman Ken Pelan. "Ken has fully recovered from the pinched nerve in the neck, and has reported in top shape. From this standpoint it looks like Ken is going to have a great year," Caniglia said.

Tackle Ed Jackson has cut weight to gain quickness and agility. "Ed's losing weight will have no effect on his overall strength because he is undoubtedly the strongest man on the team," Coach Al mentioned.

Buddy Belitz, Bernie Kanger, and Bob Kreitner have all reported in "real good shape" and show potential to be outstanding linemen for the Indians in the Fall.

At the offensive end position, Tom McKernan and Bill Haas are the leading candidates and have been labeled as real good by Caniglia.

Offensive tackle Tom Hutchinson has responded well from knee surgery, and will be expected to go at full strength next fall. Other line candidates showing promise are freshman Fernando, Mesa and Nebraska University transfer Bob Rahe.

The number one backfield composed of Marlin Briscoe at quarterback, Rick Davis at flanker, Ron Sayers at running back and Steve Haborak at fullback.

Either Ray Shaw or Gary Peters will quarterback the second unit. Greg Kavan, missing the first two practices because of the flu, is at the fullback spot. His running mate is Pat Smagacz, and Gary Paporello will be the flanker.

Defensive leaders have all been defensive backs. Lew Garrison, Smagacz, Paporello, and Haborak all have looked the best on defense thus far in spring practice.

Contact drills were slated for today, but with the limited practices the drills will be delayed until a set offense and defense can be arranged.

Coach Caniglia anticipates quite a few lineup changes. "We will be making our moves for quickness. We will try a few of our bigger backs at guard, and some of our speedier line linemen in other spots," he said.

Injuries have not been a problem so far in the spring drills, mainly because the hitting sessions have not taken place. However, Greg Kavan missed practice twice because of the flu, and Gary LaFollette pulled a leg muscle. Gary is expected to be ready the first part of next week.

Creighton Falls To OU

Omaha University's tennis squad has chalked up three victories in as many starts.

Midland and Nebraska Wesleyan were defeated in the same week, with Creighton being defeated last Tuesday afternoon.

"This is the first time since I've been here that we've beaten Creighton," OU coach Jim Borsheim said.

The doubles teams of Jary Streitweiser and Greg Classen brought OU out on top. They defeated Bill O'Brien and Mike Mackey in 7-5 and 7-5 sets. Classen played despite a broken toe sustained at Wesleyan.

Team members are Greg Classen, Jerry Giles, John Rehtmeyer, Stuart Sloan, Jary Streitweiser, and Bobby Williams.

Next match is April 18 at Doane. April 20 they travel to Des Moines to meet Drake before taking on Conference champs, Washburn here.

Tuesday's results:

Doubles:
Jiles-Sloan (OU) vs Fogarty-Circo (C), 3-6, 2-6; Classen-Streitweiser (OU) vs Mackey-O'Brien (C), 7-5, 7-5.

OU Golfers Drop Two

OU golfers lost to Nebraska and Creighton in the first triangular meet of the season.

Nebraska beat Omaha, 13-2, and Creighton 15½-2½. Creighton outscored Omaha, 10½-4½.

Results:
Nebraska 13, Omaha 2
Chuck Sweetman (73), Nebraska, defeated Ted Taylor (82), 3-0; Larry Mason (76), Nebraska, defeated Jim Thompson (82), 3-0; R. B. Lau (72), Nebraska, defeated Lonnie Jensen (84), 3-0; Don Blotzer (80), Omaha, defeated Mike Ronjue (83), 2-1; Bill Messick (77), Nebraska, defeated Ed Baburek (85), 3-0.

Creighton 10½, Omaha 4½
Tom Hopkins (79), Creighton, defeated Taylor, 2-1; Tom McGovern (79), Creighton, defeated Thompson, 2½-½; Rich McGuire (83), Creighton, defeated Jensen, 3-0; Blotzer, Omaha, defeated Tony Creisa (87), 3-0; Mike Kelly (77), Creighton, defeated Baburek, 3-0.

Volleyball To Wire, TKE's Top Pinmen

By Norman Tweedy

The two and three way tie in the volley ball competition is still the center of interest as the playoff date of April 17 draws closer.

"Looks like it will go right down to the wire," said Intramural Director Bert Kurth. "Close competition draws close interest and close interest draws more people to intramural competition," he added.

The three-way tie in League II is between the Lit Pikes, the Bruins, and the Royals all boasting a 10-4 record.

League I's tie is between The Pi Kaps and TKE with 12-2 on the sheet.

Softball Starts April 17

The Intramural softball schedule is made up and available in Bert Kurth's office.

All games are to start at 3:30 at Elmwood Park.

The first game scheduled for Monday April 17 will have TKE meeting the Brown Eyes on the East Diamond, Pi Kaps meeting the Animals, and the Sig Eps meeting Lambda Chi.

TKE's Lead Bowlers

TKE holds a one game lead over the Pi Kaps in the intramural intra-fraternity bowling competition.

Consistently good bowling seems to prevail as the TKE's hold the season record for high team series and high team game.

Girls Ready For Spring Sports

WRA will tee-off at Elmwood Park on April 17.

Girls interested may sign up with a partner for golf by seeing their WRA representative.

In other WRA activities—

The first round of tennis singles concluded with 14 winners. Eight of these will play in the second round which must be completed by April 24.

Applications for WRA officers are available this week with your WRA representative.

A general board meeting will be held next Wednesday to discuss ideas from the national convention held earlier this month in Wisconsin.

Washburn Ends Streak

Washburn University's nine game winning streak was brought to an abrupt end Tuesday as the Indians rallied for a 6-4 win.

The Ichabods, after dropping their opener, reeled off nine straight wins before the Indians invaded. The second game of the double header was called because of darkness with Washburn leading 12-8.

OU jumped to a quick 3-0 lead in the third inning of the opener when Lon Bernth tripled home Dale Lortz and Jack Holder who had walked. Larry Gomez singled Bernth home for the lead.

After falling behind 4-3, Bernth collected another RBI by bunting home Bob Davis with the bases full.

The winning runs came in the seventh as Bob Davis' single scored Harold Lenz and Ron Bernth.

In the nightcap, OU fell behind 12-2 before erupting for six runs in the fifth.

The six runs were scored while collecting only one hit. Ichabod pitchers issued five walks in the wild fifth.

The Indians next game is Wednesday with crosstown rival Creighton. The game had previously been scheduled for Tuesday. Activity card admits OU students to the 7:30 encounter.

Council To Decide Election Revisions

By Lothar A. Luken

Proposed revisions in student elections, having received a partial first-round approval, are expected to be voted upon at this Wednesday's meeting of the Student Council.

The partial approval came at a joint meeting Wednesday of seven Council members and five representatives of the Student Advisory Committee on Policies, created by nine participants of the recent Faculty-Student Retreat.

The members of the joint meeting approved the "open speech" policy proposed by the SACP, but postponed final action on the "open campaign literature" proposal until their Wednesday meeting at 3 p.m.

The Council, meeting one hour later that day, will decide on all proposals approved by the joint committee.

The "open speech" proposal would "allow candidates to appear before campus organizations, student rallies and open debates." The only restrictions would be in the form of a ban on speeches in formal class sessions and the campus radio-television stations.

The rules, as approved by the joint committee, would retain the present two posters per candidate. However a proposal for greater display and use of literature sparked a lively debate. This resulted in a postponement of that proposal until the Wednesday meeting at 3 p.m.

The debate centered around limitations as to size of posters and banners. The SACP proposal placed no limitations, but left it to the Council to approve all literature.

Another objection raised by the seven Council members stemmed from a possible space problem if there are no limitations as to size and location of posters. The SACP proposal calls for literature to be displayed anywhere on campus, "unless previously-existing rules prohibit such displaying."

The meeting adjourned at this point to allow both groups to study campaign literature further.

Approval also came on a proposal to allow candidates to check out petitions three weeks prior to the election, to be returned a week later. Presently the check-out begins two weeks before the election.

At their Wednesday meeting, prior to the Council's, the committee will conduct final action on the "literature" proposal, as well as one allowing groups endorsing candidates to advertise in The Gateway.

All regulations approved by the joint committee will be presented to the entire Student Council at their 4 p.m. Wednesday meeting for final approval.

If approved at that time, the revised regulations will apply for the May 10 elections.

Proponents of the revisions have indicated they will ask students to attend the upcoming meeting, at which time they can let the council know their views.

Housewife Is Phi Kap Scholar of Month

A housewife and a scholar? Yes, Mrs. Marjorie Artzer is both.

Therefore, Phi Kappa Phi, the national honorary on campus, is saluting Mrs. Artzer, who has earned a 3.9032 for 62 hours. She is this semester's outstanding representative of the Liberal Arts College.

Mrs. Artzer, now a junior, decided to attend OU three years ago. Her interest was sparked by her husband who attended graduate school at Nebraska University.

"I really enjoy going to school, except during exam time," she said.

"My family is extremely understanding," she added. Besides her husband John, Mrs. Artzer has two sons aged 14 and 5 years old.

Does she have any studying secrets? Not really.

"I study before tests, then I'm as bad as everyone else. We do make studying a family project, though," she said.

Independents To Try Coup?

view of all rules governing the student body by the Student Council, which would also hold its meeting in a room suitable for large student audiences, as stated in another proposed plank.

As to the matter of independent support, the initial organizers have indicated they will meet with representatives of the various non-Greek clubs and all other interested unaffiliated individuals to explain the movement.

The group will not propose candidates of its own, but rather promote and endorse those independents of the "do-something" caliber.

The reason for the entire "push" is a growing realization among independent students that elections are nothing more than popularity polls and controlled by social organizations with "vested interests" which come above those of the students they are to represent on the Council.

No Special Interests

The movement would involve independent students who would represent the entire student body and not a special-interest organization.

With their drive against Greek control of the Council, the movement backers do not fear possible Greek repercussions in the form of an anti-independent push, because they feel through effective planning the independent majority will offset any Greek bloc.

What these individuals fear, however, is a possible "mushrooming" of independent candidates due to a changed attitude in regard to student government of this campus.

To prevent this sort of split in the independent ranks, all prospective independent candidates will be urged to work together and to pool their resources.

But Will They Run?

The question, however, remains of whether this drive will be successful in its promotion of independent candidates.

The initial organizers are firm in their belief such a drive will culminate in the sought-after goal.

At any rate, for the first time in 15 barren years there are signs of a charged atmosphere surrounding the May 10 race for the Student Council seats.

Preminger To Appear At Creighton

Two nationally-known film producers will appear at this weekend's Creighton University Film-Makers' Workshop.

Vienna-born Otto Preminger, producer of the controversial "Man With the Golden Arm", will present his latest release "Hurry Sundown," dealing with the Negro in the new South.

"Sundown" has received a "Condemned" rating from the National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures. The private showing at Creighton will mark the debut of the film in Omaha.

Stan Brakhage, who has received national attention for his "underground" films, will show his latest film, the "23rd Psalm Branch", dealing with World War II.

The three-day event will also include 25 other films, along with talks and commercial displays.

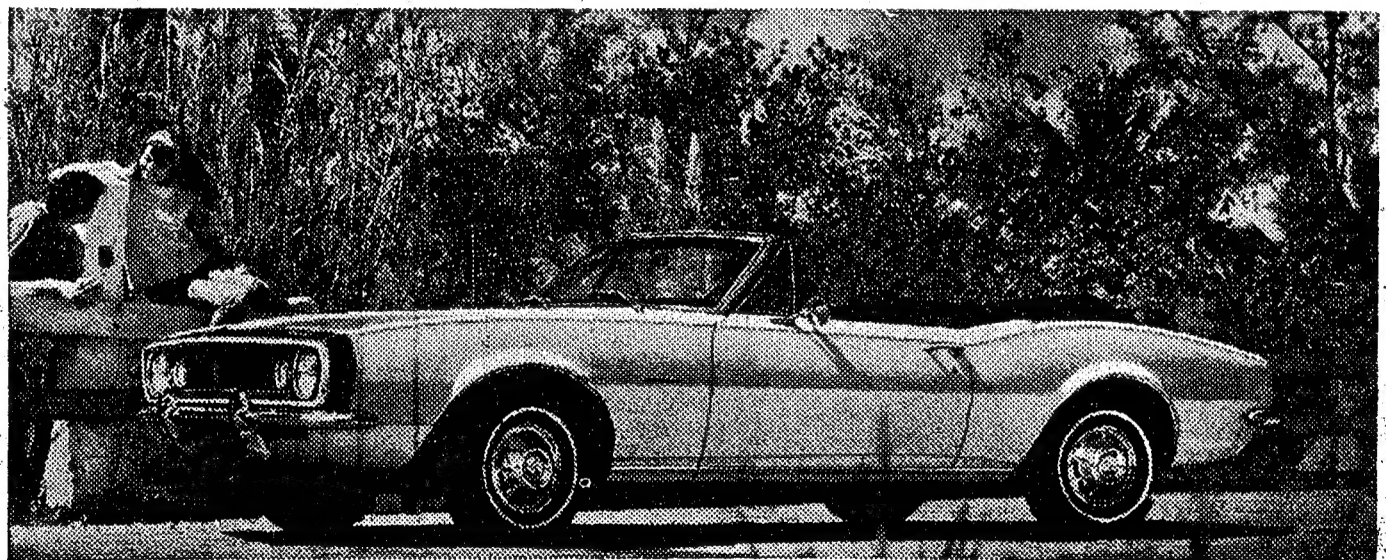

According to the Rev. Leland E. Lubbers, S.J., chairman of the workshop, the event is for "artists who suspect that film making is the relevant art medium."

Rather than a discussion of the films' contents, the workshop will be concerned with techniques and methods, according to Father Lubbers.

The films scheduled to be presented also include "A Time for Burning", a national documentary dealing with race relations in an Omaha church.

Cost for the three-day event is $5 for students and $10 for non-students. Registration will be from 3:30 to 6 p.m. at the Creighton Fine Arts Gallery, 14th and Davenport St.

Secretaries Visit Phi Chi Seminar

The OU chapter of Phi Chi Theta presented the 14th Annual Seminar for Today's Secretary last week.

The seminar expanded the secretaries' knowledge and qualifications to meet the needs of today. Over 200 Omaha secretaries attended.

Featured speaker for the event, Dr. Clyde L. Blanchard, spoke on "Written Communication-Quality Production at a Minimum Cost."

Dr. Franklin Forbes, a guest speaker, encouraged women to take an active part in soliciting an equal position for themselves in the business world. Dr. Forbes suggested that chapters of the organization write to business associations and congressmen to aid in passing favorable legislation.

The Grind

Zeta Tau Alpha will hold its White Violet Ball Saturday at the Birchwood Club.

The Carl Jay Orchestra will play for the formal dinner dance.

The Zeta Honey will be announced at the dance as well as the Outstanding junior and senior members of the sorority.

Sigma Kappa has formally pledged junior Charlotte Black, and freshmen Linda Howell and Sue Kruse.

Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity is having a party this week-end for newly elected actives.

Twenty-one Theta Chi's will leave this afternoon for the Regional Conclave in Lawrence, Kansas. Last year the OX returned with the trophy as the most improved chapter in region fourteen. Members are hoping for similar success at this year's convention.

Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity activated Steve Kass April 9.

Chi Omega sorority's National Chapter Visitor, Mary Alice Arnold, is visiting OU's Zeta Delta chapter from April 9 until April 14. Traveling with her to Brookings, South Dakota is a 12-member delegation of Chi Omega sorority. They will attend the installation of a chapter there.

Sigma Phi Epsilon sponsored a Go-to-Church last Sunday. After the services, the brothers met at the Fireside Restaurant for a breakfast. Later in the afternoon, the actives challenged pledges to a baseball game.

Girls Vie For 'Daisy Mae'

Lambda Chi Alpha will hold its first annual Sadie Hawkins Day April 21.

The all-Greek function will be held in the fieldhouse, with fraternities and sororities competing against each other in games.

Contests for the boys include catching a greased pig, climbing a greased pole, stuffing an outhouse, the Sadie Hawkins race, the donkey race and a cider-drinking contest.

The girls will compete at catching a greased pig, rolling cigarettes, a shoe race, a Sadie Hawkins race and outhouse stuffing.

Sororities have entered candidates for the title of Daisy Mae. The girls are Sharon Hunter, Alpha Xi Delta; Judy Wenger, Chi Omega; Rita Owens, Sigma Kappa and Pat Johnson, Zeta Tau Alpha. The winner will be chosen by the number of points her sorority earns in all of the events.

There will be a dance following the Sadie Hawkins Day competition.

Bristles Bloom With Ma-ie Day

OU's Centennial beard-growers will have a chance at some fringe benefits for their efforts.

The Student Council is sponsoring a beard-growing contest as part of the Ma-ie Day celebrations. Prizes will be awarded to the winners.

Judging will be in three categories: the longest beard, the softest beard, and most well-groomed beard. Winners will be chosen during the field house games on Ma-ie Day.

Women judges will decide what beard deserves which prize.
